To Whom it May Concern:

Animals have been tested for tuberculosis and are clear for interstate movement immediately.

This herd is enrolled in the USDA Voluntary Avian Influenza Program. PCR results for Avian Influenza have been negative for the last 5 weeks and are clear to ship at any time.

March 23 and 24, 2026, my team confirmed pregnancies in animals at Nunes Brothers Dairy. Fresh animals were not assessed. New pregnancies were checked on April 13, 2026. Records are accurate.

Herd bulk tank samples collected on March 12, 2026, were negative for contagious pathogens. Please see the attached milk lab report from the UC Davis VMTRC Milk Quality Lab. Note that dry cows and animals that have freshened since March 12 are not included in these results.

For the record, I am not Nunes Brothers Dairy regular herd veterinarian. As I was working through these cattle, it was noticeable to me these animals were extremely easy to handle. As we were moving animals to the stanchions, for the most part, they easily locked up. In my veterinary experience of 23 years, I can only remember one other herd that was as easy and calm to handle.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Wessel, DVM
